THE CIRCUS ACCIDENT.

Further Particulars—The Coroner's Investigation—Carelessness of the Drivers—Another Accident Barely Averted.

The Newark Advertiser of last evening says:—

The Coroner's jury on the accident to Barnum's caravan at Cranford, yesterday rendered a verdict "That Theodore Conklin and Edward Dyer, on the 27th day of April, 1871, at Cranford, in Union county, accidentally and by misfortune were run over and killed on the New Jersey Central Railroad; and we further find that no blame is attached to the employes of said Central Railroad Company." Certificates of burial were then given Mr. Cook by the Coroner, and the bodies of Conklin and Dyer will be interred at once by Mr. Barnum's manager.

The manner of the accident is thus detailed:—The locomotive struck the two hind mules and the forward part of the wagon with the velocity of a cannon ball, and scattered them in pieces on every side. The wagon was smashed to atoms and strewn with its contents along the left of the track. The two mules were instantly killed and hoisted twenty feet distant into a ditch on the right. Dody Conklin was thrown fifty feet into the air. He fell on his head, making a dent in the earth two or three inches deep and breaking his neck. The boy Welsh was also flung into the air, striking on his head in his descent. The others were scattered here and there along the road. The engineer of the train was bruised about the head by the flying debris, and some of the woodwork of the locomotive was broken. Blood was spattered over the engine and over the smoking car nearly its entire length. The force of the collision was such as to cut the traces of the two forward mules like a knife, and set them free uninjured. They immediately bolted, but were afterwards captured several miles up the country.

Mr. W. W. Cook, the principal manager of the circus, on hearing of the accident, telegraphed to Mr. Barnum, who was in Bridgeport attending a lawsuit as witness. The following reply was received:—

"Bury the dead decently. Send the wounded to Bellevue Hospital, New York. Have them treated well. Pay all expense. P. T. BARNUM."

In accordance with this Mr. Cook had a sleeping car put on the 2 o'clock train, and the wounded sent to New York. They were received at Bellevue Hospital and placed under the best surgical treatment at once. Little Tommy Walsh is sinking fast.

The cavalcade, we learn, also met with a narrow escape at the Jersey street crossing at Elizabeth in the morning. The drivers were careless, allowing the ponies and mules to follow the wagon at the risk of being run over by the trains. The engineer of the New Brunswick train saw them in time to blow down brakes, coming near to a stand still, thereby saving the animals. The flagmen at the crossing could not prevent their crossing ahead of the train.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

Murder in the Second Degree.

Court of Oyer and Terminer—Judges Paxson and Finletter.

In the case of Alfred Riley, charged with the murder of Matthew Semple, the jury, after being out all night, this morning rendered a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree, and the Court at once imposed a sentence of ten years in the Eastern Penitentiary.

Snodgrass, the Drayman.

Samuel Snodgrass, who was convicted of involuntary manslaughter in driving his dray over the boy Michael McCloskey, and causing his death, was sentenced to a fine of $ 00 and an imprisonment of three months.

Receiving Stolen Goods.

In the case of the Commonwealth against Jacob Metzgar, Judge Paxson said:—This was a rule to show cause why the sentence should not be reconsidered and reduced. The defendant was convicted on the 6th of April of receiving stolen goods, knowing them to be stolen, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and to undergo an imprisonment of three years, the maximum punishment provided by law for the offense.

This, like a similar sentence at the last term, was imposed from the conviction that no class of criminals are more deserving of punishment than receivers of stolen goods. Since the conviction of Metzgar a strong pressure has been brought to bear to procure a mitigation of the sentence, and the Court has afforded every opportunity for the defendant to present everything which could possibly bear upon his case. The facts of the case as disclosed upon the trial were, substantially, that in March last three burglaries were committed, and among other things a quantity of silver was stolen. A portion of this was taken to Metzgar, who applied an acid test, and a number of plated spoons and forks were broken up by him and thrown down the sink. When arrested Metzgar denied all knowledge of the goods, but the broken articles were found in the sink by the officers, with the owner's name still upon them. On the strong evidence produced the jury very properly convicted the defendant despite very considerable, but not very weighty, evidence of good character. The additional evidence of good character produced since indicates that the defendant has hitherto borne a good reputation for honesty among a certain class of people, who knew him only as a tavern-keeper and dealer in cigars; but I am equally satisfied that all this time—at least for several years—he has been leading a double life, one as tavern-keeper and the other as a receiver of stolen goods. There is no class of criminals against whom the law should be enforced with more inflexible firmness than receivers of stolen goods. While they abound in our midst, it is rare that the law can reach them, so generally and effectually are they shielded and protected by their associates in crime. But for the facilities which they afford in the sale of stolen property there would be but few burglars and thieves. There is not a burglar in the penitentiary but will say that but for the receivers they could not ply their calling successfully, and the number of boys and young men who are encouraged in crime by receivers is incalculable. In view of all these things we can do no less than mete out to such persons, when convicted, the severest penalties of the law.

Feeling as I do the most profound pity for the family of this unfortunate man, I consider that the interests of justice and the protection of society imperatively require that his sentence should stand. Severe though it may be, it is but a proper judgment upon a righteous verdict. Rule discharged.

Grand Jury Presentment.

The Grand Jury having completed their labors, made their final presentment to the court. They have acted upon 362 bills, of which 263 were returned as true bills and 99 were ignored. The Grand Jury state nothing in their presentment except the old stereotyped visits to public institutions, and were discharged from further attendance. Among the bills they have ignored were one against William M. Bunn, charging him with obtaining money by fraudulent and false means, and one against Robert Fox, charged upon the oath of John H. Taggart with keeping a theatre without a license. In this latter case the Grand Jury ignored the bill and put the costs upon Mr. Taggart, notwithstanding the fact that the City Treasurer went before them and testified that Mr. Fox had not a license at the time the charge was preferred.

The Fox-Taggart Libel.

Messrs. John B. Taggart and Henry L. Taggart, publishers of the Sunday Times, were in court to receive sentence upon their conviction of libel against Robert Fox. Mr. John H. Taggart addressed the Court, saying he desired to interpose no delay in the final disposition of his case; he admitted that the publication of the article in question was wrong and unjustifiable; he regretted it very much, and made assurance that he would not again be led into a like error; but he had been grievously provoked to it by the prosecutor. However, he was ready to submit himself to the judgment of the Court, saying that his son had no hand whatever in the matter.

Judge Peirce reminded the defendant that newspaper publishers had not the right to sit in judgment upon a man's private acts and character, and when they did so they made themselves amenable to the criminal law. He imposed upon John H. Taggart a fine of $100 and costs, and upon Henry L. Taggart a fine of $50 and costs.

—The large and intelligent black dog belonging to the Providence Police Department, known as "Dan," is a valuable animal, and is said to have been the means of saving the lives of no less than five persons since becoming the property of the city.

Singular Case—Alleged Conspiracy to Murder.

NEW YORK, April 29.—In the New Jersey Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday at New Brunswick, Theodore Willitts, the proprietor of the Brooklyn Opera House, and Mrs. Anna M. Yates, a lady of wealth, beauty, and high social standing, appeared as prisoners charged with subornation of murder. James Baxter, who caused their arrest, was formerly in the employ of Samuel Whitehead, a wealthy citizen of Washa, N. J., father of Mrs. Yates, and father-in-law of Willitts. Baxter charges that on the 14th of July, 1870, Willitts, Mrs. Willitts, and Mrs. Yates offered him $1000 and a house for the remainder of his life if he would serve them by killing Whitehead. They suggested that they should get the old man drunk, and burn the house with Whitehead in it. A month later Baxter says he made the attempt, pouring oil upon the floor of Mr. Whitehead's bed-room after the old gentleman had retired. The house was burned, but Mr. Whitehead escaped. On another occasion he was requested by Willitts and Mrs. Yates to entice Mr. Whitehead to the barn and then kill him, but the scheme fell through. He was then hired to waylay Mr. Whitehead and kill him, but this he did not dare to do for fear that he might be killed by another hired hand. This is the substance of Baxter's affidavit. How true it is cannot at present be known. The prisoners of course deny it. They were held in $2000 bail each to answer at the next term of the court.

OBITUARY.

Ex-Senator James M. Mason.

A despatch from Washington announces the death, near Alexandria, Virginia, of the Hon. James Murray Mason, for many years a Senator of the United States, and celebrated in connection with his seizure by Admiral Wilkes on board the steamer Trent, in the early stage of the recent civil war. He was the lineal descendant of an English Cavalier who escaped from the fatal field of Worcester in 1651, and came to America, purchasing a plantation in Virginia, where his descendants became one of the leading and most influential families in the State under the old slave regime. James Murray Mason was the grandson of Colonel George Mason, the first of the family who rose to prominence in this country, and was born on Analostan Island, Fairfax county, Va., on the 3d of November, 1798. He received a good education, which was completed at the University of Pennsylvania, in this city, where he graduated in 1818. He then studied law at the College of William and Mary, in Virginia, and was admitted to the bar in 1820.

Entering upon political life, Mr. Mason was elected a member of the Virginia House of Delegates in 1826, and from that time forward to the outbreak of the Southern Rebellion was seldom out of office. He was twice re-elected to the Virginia House of Delegates, serving meanwhile as a Representative in Congress from 1837 to 1839; and in 1847 entered the United States Senate as successor to Senator Pennypacker, serving by successive re-elections until the outbreak of the Rebellion, the last term for which he had been elected not expiring until 1863. For several sessions he acted as chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, in which position he was frequently brought into more than ordinary prominence. He belonged to the extreme Southern wing of the Democracy, and was a devoted champion of secession from the start, and on January 25, 1861, was the first to sign an address to the people of Virginia from their representatives in Congress, warning them that "it was vain to hope for any measures of conciliation or adjustment from Congress which they could accept." This address further declared that the signers were "satisfied that the Republican party designed, by civil war alone, to coerce the Southern States, under the pretext of enforcing the laws, unless it should become speedily apparent that the seceding States were so numerous, determined, and united as to make such an attempt hopeless." Pending the vote of the people of the State on ratifying the ordinance of secession, Mr. Mason also made a direct appeal to them to vote affirmatively, and, in short, proved himself to be as arrant a traitor as the Old Dominion produced throughout the war.

Mr. Mason withdrew from the Senate with the rest of the Virginia delegation, but was formally expelled by resolution in July, 1861. He became a delegate from Virginia to the Provisional Rebel Congress which assembled at Montgomery, but resigned in the fall of 1861, to go to England as commissioner of the Confederate Government. On October 12 he sailed from Charleston, accompanied by E. J. McFarland as secretary, and by John Slidell, of Louisiana, the Confederate Commissioner to France, and his secretary, George Eustis. On the 24th the party arrived at Havana, where they embarked, on November 7 on the Royal English mail steamer Trent. On the following day, Admiral, then Captain, Wilkes, in command of the United States man-of-war San Jacinto, overhauled the Trent in the Bahama Channel, and seized the two commissioners and their secretaries, in defiance of the protest of the commander of the Trent and of the English mail agent, Commander Williams. Admiral Wilkes carried his prisoners to New York, whence they were removed to Fort Warren, in the harbor of Boston, by order of Secretary Seward. Their seizure created a great sensation throughout the country, and aroused the wildest enthusiasm, Secretary Welles going so far as to formally thank Admiral Wilkes for his action. But Great Britain was thrown into even greater tumult, and Lord Palmerston's Government at once took a decided stand on the question. In a letter dated November 30, 1861, Earl Russell, the British Foreign Secretary, wrote to Lord Lyons, and, after reciting the circumstances of the seizure, said:—

"Her Majesty's Government, therefore, trust that when this matter shall have been brought under the consideration of the Government of the United States that Government will, of its own accord, offer to the British Government such redress as alone could satisfy the British nation, namely, the liberation of the four gentlemen, and their delivery to your lordship, in order that they may again be placed under British protection, and a suitable apology for the aggression which has been committed. Should these terms not be offered by Mr. Seward you will propose them to him."

Secretary Seward wrote a lengthy epistle in reply to this, under date of December 26, in which he discussed the seizure in all its details and with his customary adroitness. Admiral Wilkes was compelled to bear the burden of blame for the seizure, having "acted upon his own suggestions of duty, without any direction or instruction, or even foreknowledge of it, on the part of our Government." Then, ignoring the precedents established by Great Britain, Mr. Seward concluded his despatch as follows:—

"If I decide this case in favor of my own Government, I must disavow its most cherished principles, and reverse and forever abandon its essential policy. The country cannot afford the sacrifice. If I maintain those principles, and adhere to that policy, I must surrender the case itself. It will be seen, therefore, that this Government could not deny the justice of the claim presented to us in this respect upon its merits. We are asked to do the British nation just what we have always insisted all nations ought to do to us.

"In coming to my conclusion I have not forgotten that, if the safety of this Union required the detention of the captured persons, it would be the right and duty of this Government to detain them. But the effectual check and waning proportions of the existing insurrection, as well as the comparative unimportance of the captured persons themselves, when dispassionately weighed, happily forbid me from resorting to that defense. * * * *

"It would tell little for our own claims to the character of a just and magnanimous people if we should so far consent to be guided by the law of retaliation as to lift up buried injuries from their graves to oppose against what national consistency and the national conscience compel us to regard as a claim intrinsically right.

"Putting behind me all suggestions of this kind, I prefer to express my satisfaction that, by the adjustment of the present case upon principles confessedly American, and yet, as I trust, mutually satisfactory to both of the nations concerned, a question is finally and rightly settled between them which, heretofore exhausting not only all forms of peaceful discussion, but also the arbitrament of war itself, for more than half a century alienated the two countries from each other, and perplexed with fears and apprehensions all other nations."

Accordingly, the two commissioners, with their secretaries, were turned over to Lord Lyons, the British Minister, on the 2d of January, 1862. This discreet action on the part of our Government doubtless averted a war between the two countries, as the position assumed by the British Government was enthusiastically supported by the mass of the English people, and had moreover the endorsement of several other European powers. Although the general drift of popular sentiment in the United States was at first in favor of holding on to the four Rebel diplomats, Secretary Seward contrived, by his adroitness, to satisfy the sense of national honor, and, by the course of his argument, even placed the British Government in a humiliating position on the question of international obligations to respect the flag of neutral and friendly powers in time of war.

Immediately after their transfer to the custody of Lord Lyons, Mason and Slidell proceeded to England, where they arrived about the middle of January. They were treated with great consideration by the open and avowed enemies of the United States, but failed to receive official recognition at the hands of either the English or French Government, although the ex-Emperor Napoleon III granted them a private and cordial interview on their subsequent arrival in Paris. During the greater part of the war they resided in the latter capital, and continued their intrigues until the close of the war, but without material success. The war over, Mr. Mason returned to the United States without molestation, and for some time past resided near Alexandria, Virginia, in comparative obscurity and without attempting to take any active part in public affairs. In early life Mr. Mason married a member of the historical Chew family of Germantown, and for many years was involved in a bitter litigation with other members of the family concerning the settlement of the Chew estate.

MEXICO.

Address of President Juarez.

At the opening of the last regular session of the Fifth Congress of the Mexican Republic, President Juarez submitted the following address:—

Citizen Deputies:—You now return to the exercise of your legislative functions upon the very day designated by the Constitution, as you have done in the previous periods of your sessions. This regularity in your labors demonstrates that our political institutions become every day more and more consolidated, and that it is not now easy to interrupt their progress or to destroy it with impunity. Our relations with the friendly powers maintain the same amicable and satisfactory situation of which I informed you at the opening of your extra session, and without any good reason to fear any disagreeable change. Peace is preserved within the republic in the same manner as I stated to you a few days since.

We ought to congratulate the nation upon the fact that after a long period of sanguinary strife to establish our free institutions and confirm our independence, we can now tranquilly dedicate ourselves to the reorganization and improvement of our society. Nevertheless, we ought not to trust blindly that these institutions and this peace are entirely assured; there still exist latent elements which may destroy them; the partisans of reaction and of abuses are spying an opportunity to re-establish their former predominance, and it is necessary to redouble our labors and our vigilance to oppose and destroy their anti-patriotic tendencies. To attain this object, it is indispensable that the nation be prepared with the proper elements not only to repress all outbreaks, but also to prevent them in time.

In the period of sessions which you to-day begin, and which is especially set apart by the Constitution to the discussion of the expenditures which are to be made, and to supply resources with which to meet them, you will have to take cognizance of questions which, under the simple title of estimates, involve the consolidation of peace and the maintenance of our republican institutions. The Executive thinks that, while all possible economy is to be studied to reduce the public expenditures to the amount absolutely necessary, it would not be prudent to deprive the Treasury of those resources which are indispensable to meet the needs of the nation and to discharge with regularity its pecuniary obligations.

As being of great interest for the purpose of facilitating mercantile transactions, and for the development of the elements of the national wealth, I will allow myself to recommend to you the pending propositions concerning a change in the laws relating to mortgages and for the removal of the obstacles in the way of the free exercise of mining occupations. The matters which will occupy your attention during the present period of sessions are grave and of the highest importance; but the confidence which the nation has in your patriotism and exalted wisdom is also great, and it expects from you the most judicious resolutions and those most necessary for the interests of society. Begin, Citizen Deputies, your interesting deliberations, and count upon the co-operation of the Executive, which, in the discharge of its duty, will strictly observe and cause to be observed your important resolves.

Daring Outrage.

NEW YORK, April 29.—About 4 o'clock this morning a cry of murder from No. 125 Elm street, occupied by Miss Catharine Manning, attracted the police. On entering the place they found Miss Manning bound hand and foot, and her face covered with blood.

When released, she stated that about 3·30 she let in one of the inmates, and then went to bed and fell asleep. Soon after she was awakened by some persons taking hold of her, and saw four men in the room with their faces covered with handkerchiefs.

After they had bound and gagged her they proceeded to rob her place. Diamond earrings were wrenched from her ears, and three finger rings, a locket and necklace were taken, all valued at $1475; also about $180 in money which was tied in a handkerchief and placed under her pillow. There were no marks on the door to lead to the belief that an entrance was forced, so the ruffians must have secreted themselves in the house during the night.

Death of Mr. Putnam.

Avery D. Putnam, who was struck on the head with a car-hook by William Foster on Wednesday night last, on the corner of Forty-sixth street and Seventh avenue, lingered in the most excruciating agony till ten minutes past three this morning, when he died. Foster has been identified by Mrs. Duval and daughter, who were with Putnam at the time of the occurrence.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

EVENING TELEGRAPH OFFICE,
Saturday, April 29, 1871.

There is a moderately active demand for capital to-day, but not more than the average for the last day of the week. The demand for commercial paper, both at the banks and outside, is very active, lenders being anxious to find settled employment for their increasing balances during the period when money and business are dull. Easy rates are invariably offered for good paper having three to four months to mature, but there is no vitality to the market. The banks are taking all the good paper offering at 6 per cent. Call loans move freely at 5@6 per cent. on Government bonds and other desirable collaterals.

The Government list is strong all through our quotations, showing a further gain on closing prices yesterday.

The stock market was less active, but almost uniformly strong. Sales of State 6s, second series, at 107⅝, and City 6s, new bonds, at 102⅝.

Reading Railroad was quiet but strong at 55⅛@55 3-16, but no sales were reported. Pennsylvania sold at 66⅛@66⅜; Little Schuylkill at 45⅝; Camden and Amboy at 126, and Northern Central at 43⅛. Oil Creek and Allegheny was very strong and in demand, with sales at 53@53⅜.

Canal stocks were dull, the only sale being one of Susquehanna at 10.

The balance of the list was firm, but the sales were restricted to Manufacturers' Bank at 30⅞@31; Thirteenth and Fifteenth Streets Railroad at 24½, and Central Transportation at 46½.

—The progress of the new United States loan is shown by the following communication from the Treasury Department:—

NO IMMUNITY FOR SLANDER.

From the N. Y. Tribune.

Libel suits are generally regarded as a device for the persecution of newspapers; they should be held a wise provision for their protection. We dissent from the declaration of a prominent editor, the other day, when an acquaintance claimed his congratulations on the recovery of a substantial verdict for a wanton slander, "Oh, you know newspapers are all opposed to libel suits." The Tribune is not opposed to libel suits; it is in favor of them. It heartily wishes there were ten times as many of them; that the law's delays might be lessened, the process of forcing a verdict simplified, the probability of heavy damages for clear malicious libel increased a hundred fold. In short, the Tribune is not in favor of slander; wants no immunity for slander; longs for the day when the impunity wherein so many other papers riot, to the disgrace of journalism and the incalculable reduction of its power, shall be summarily ended, by short, sharp justice, impartially and relentlessly administered.

Here is the case of Mr. E. L. Sanderson, of Brooklyn, against whom this libel was printed in the Sunday Mercury, in the autumn of 1867:—

> "Elnathan L. Sanderson, extra radical candidate for Assembly from the Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Eleventh wards of Brooklyn, did a good thing in his sober moments in the way of collecting soldiers' claims against the Government for a fearful percentage. The blood money he got from the Boys in Blue in this way is supposed to be a big thing, and may elect him to the Assembly on the 'loyal' ticket, although the soldiers and sailors are out in full force against him."

It was not till this month of April, 1871, that, three or four days ago, Mr. Sanderson was finally able to secure from the court of last resort a judgment for five thousand dollars damages for this wanton libel, the means for determining the falsity of which were in the possession of the editor when he recklessly sent it out. A verdict was obtained in the Kings County Court. The case was appealed to the General Term, and the judgment of the Court below was there affirmed. The case was then carried to the Court of Appeals, where the judgment was again reaffirmed, and Mr. Sanderson was given, after three and a half years of vexatious litigation, his order on responsible men for his five thousand dollars.

Now who does not see that it would have been better for the cause of honest, reputable journalism, if the damages had been made twice as heavy, and awarded five times as soon? We have looked through the copy of the paper in which this libel was printed, and do not doubt that that identical sheet contains a dozen others as gross and malicious. But there was only one of the victims uniting the means and courage to prosecute with the pertinacity to fight through three courts and three and a half years for his verdict. Suppose the others had been ready to do the same, and the verdicts had been irrevocably rendered in each case within six months, can it be doubted that the Sunday Mercury would thenceforth have thought it profitable to indulge more sparingly in wholesale slander—that a swarm of lesser organs of personal defamation would have taken warning by the example—that honorable journals would have gained in repute and influence by this process of cauterizing the excrescences of journalism?

There are papers in this city that never print an issue without a libel. Sometimes it is the offspring of malicious hate, more often of malicious recklessness. In not one case in a hundred is a fair correction ever made. A few angry victims go to the office, intemperately threaten suits, find their threats not unnaturally met with defiance, and then, remembering the cost, interminable delays, and great uncertainty, abandon the matter; while the newspaper, accepting this as a triumph, refuses any explanation, and either blackens the libel or avoids the subject, as its estimate of the probability that the victim may be goaded into an execution of his threat may dictate. Others ask corrections courteously, and are so disgusted at finding these adroitly put in such guise as to conceal the fact that there is any correction (or perhaps even to make the original libel worse), that they abandon the matter. The rest, witnessing these results, do nothing; but lament the lawless tyranny of a licentious press. Meanwhile the profession is degraded, and the influence of every honest paper is curtailed. Angry and wronged men do not draw fine distinctions; too many are ready to believe that an inherent vice of the system which is really only the depravity of its baser members.

On many well-meaning journals, too, there comes a reflex influence. Finding slap-dash personal abuse one of the profitable things in the market, and the organs of slander apparently free to say what they please without restraint of any kind whatsoever, the wants of their business and the spirit of competition gradually draw them into the same current of miscellaneous libel. Here was a reputable journal, the other day, so demoralized as to charge a United States Senator with an infamous offense without a scintilla of evidence or even of probability for it, and so brazen as to refuse correction. On our table lies another reputable journal with an article gloating over a story it has wantonly invented that a young lady, prominent before the public, is secretly married. Political malignity may explain the one; a mere goatish love for prurience the other; but would it not be better for honorable journalism if both could be promptly and sharply punished for their inexcusable offenses against truth and decency?

We conclude as we began. Libel suits should be regarded, not as the persecution, but as the protection of journalism. The Tribune is in favor of libel suits, wishes there were more of them, and that the process of getting verdicts and collecting damages were easier. But let us not be misunderstood. The subjects of real wrong rarely prosecute for libel, and we wish they would; the tricksters, the adventurers, the men without characters to damage, are the ones so generally prompt to seek salves in court for what no court can cure; and for them we profess no purpose save to give them the same hard fights they have so often had from us in the past. We intentionally make no statement which we do not believe true, and right to be made. When we are mistaken, as must sometimes happen, we hold ourselves always ready, when the mistake is brought to our knowledge, to give the promptest reparation. There are fools who, after that, would still seek damages in court, and we are glad that they generally meet the fool's reward. But clear and malicious libel, correction whereof has, on proper application, been refused, ought always to be prosecuted; and we hold it the duty and the interest of honorable journalists, in self-defense, to unite in encouraging the prosecution.

THE FATE OF MRS. FAIR.

From the N. Y. World.

A word fitly spoken, the wise man tells us, is like apples of gold in pictures of silver. California is rich both in gold and in silver, but she has never combined her treasures in more useful form than when on Wednesday a San Francisco jury pronounced Mrs. Fair to be guilty of murder in the first degree. It remains still to be seen whether the Governor of California will have the courage to imitate the firmness with which Governor Hoffman, in the case of the ruffian Real, who murdered a policeman, did his full executive duty, with an equal superiority to the merciful movements of his own nature and to the organized influences which were brought to bear upon him to sway him from his loyalty to his oath and to his trust.

With the single exception, perhaps, of the murder of Mr. Key by Sickles, the murder of Mr. Crittenden by the woman whom a Californian jury have now most righteously condemned was the most thoroughly odious crime of the kind which has been perpetrated of late years in this country. It closely resembled the "Washington tragedy" of 1859, not only, as we have already pointed out, in the elaborate care with which the dramatic accessories of the deed had been considered and planned by the perpetrator, but in the cold-blooded and exquisite selfishness of the motives by which, so far as it is given to man to analyze the motives of his fellow-creatures, the assassin seems to have been governed in the doing of the deed. As subsequent events interpreted by the light of revelations made in the course of the trial have abundantly shown, the murderer of Mr. Key deliberately determined upon attempting to convert to his own personal political advantage, by an outburst of simulated passion, a scandal in which he had acquiesced so long as it seemed likely to slumber within the circle of his intimates, but which he had sufficient knowledge of his countrymen to feel would damn him were it to become public in a tame and commonplace fashion. His calculations, made for the meridian of Washington, proved to be correct. With the help of Edwin M. Stanton he emerged from his trial an injured husband maddened by the delicacy of his sensibilities into an irresponsible murderer.

The slayer of Mr. Crittenden, after exhausting her last hope of converting his remaining resources of property and of ability to her own exclusive advantage, in like manner resolved upon refreshing her somewhat worn and threadbare reputation as a siren by surrounding herself with the blood-red aureole of a murderess. Possibly she had read, certainly she was far enough advanced in life to remember, the proceedings in the case of that remarkable young lady of Scotland, Miss Madeline Smith, whose trial for the murder of her lover and dismissal upon a Scotch verdict of "not proven" were immediately followed by no fewer than sixteen offers of marriage, some of them from persons of means if not of mind. But a woman who had passed through life after the fashion of Mrs. Fair needed not the help of precedent and example to teach her a contemptuous confidence in the power of insolence and indecency over the imaginations of a certain proportion of what we sarcastically style the "stronger sex." Mrs. Fair, in her well-known and widely-advertised character of a woman scorned into transcending the furies of hell, might be quite sure of recovering all and more than all that she had lost by the miserable subserviency of Mr. Crittenden to the yoke of the home which he had madly dishonored but could not bring himself coldly to disown. She had nothing to fear but the possibility of such a verdict as that which has now in truth overtaken her. But how vague and remote that possibility must have appeared to her! Of her male prototypes the most distinguished had escaped from the gallows to become the associate and friend of the Chief Magistrate of the Union, and to be selected by him as the fitting representative in a great foreign city of American morals and manners. Of those of her own sex the most conspicuous, the truly heart-broken Miss Harris, who came all the way from Chicago by express train, stopping at the best hotels, to shoot another woman's husband in the National Treasury because she had wished to marry him herself, had been surrendered by twelve sobbing citizens in a jury-box to the tender embraces, damp with manly tears, of her sympathizing counsel. Why should Mrs. Fair have anticipated a less flattering fate than theirs? If we are to believe the reports of her trial, she is better looking than Miss Harris. Her histrionic talents certainly are not much inferior to those of Sickles. She made a mistake, to be sure, in that tirade which flung her fiercely and brutally, the lie upon her lips, against the widow of her victim confronted with her in the court. But then she had not enjoyed such advantages of education as her masculine predecessor. Perhaps, too, her almost exclusive familiarity with hotel-life may have misled her as to the universality of that intolerance of conjugal fidelity which seems to have been her nearest approach to a moral conviction. But at all events she was attractive enough and clever enough to warrant her in counting upon a triumphant acquittal. It is recorded of a duchess of the Regency that she put down her confessor peremptorily, when he sought to tame her with eternal terrors into temporal restraint, by informing him that in her opinion the Almighty would think twice before he damned a person of her quality. What French duchesses of the last century expected of the Almighty, American drabs of the present century seem to expect of American juries. It is not very easy to justify criminal legislation at all, except its design be to benefit society, either by disciplining its members into restraining their passions or by putting away those members who trample the discipline under foot. In our recent American practice it had come near to be established as a principle that to prove the criminal transported by individual passion over the limits of social discipline was to excuse the crime. We cannot be quite sure that this principle has really been set aside in the case of Mrs. Fair. Her condemnation may, perhaps, have resulted rather from the belief of the jury that her passion was simulated than from a sound recognition of the true basis of just verdicts in such cases. Still it is something to find a capacity even of critical dramatic perception in an average jury. It is better that a woman who has outraged every principle of decency and every noble instinct of humanity should be punished for bad acting in the dock than that she should be acquitted of murder in the highway merely because she is a woman.

RUFFIANISM IN STREET CARS.

From the N. Y. Times.

Any one accustomed to travel at night in our street cars will be able to appreciate how completely the respectable inhabitants of this community are at the mercy of our city rowdies. Their extensive control over city boards and local courts lends to our collective mass of ruffianism a social importance and a degree of immunity from ordinary restraint unexampled in any great city of the world. Any one whom a drunken or quarrelsome rough may single out for insult is almost entirely without a remedy. He may be riding in a car filled with passengers, nearly all of whom are respectable citizens, but in the event of his being made the target of brutal insolence his peaceably-disposed fellow-passengers will, in nine cases out of ten, keep their sentiments to themselves, and represent the cause of order by a masterly inactivity. Nobody knows whether the foul-mouthed aggressor may not by an alderman or part proprietor of some local justice. He might have the ear of the Governor, or might be one of the shoulder-hitters who bask in the smiles of Tweed. To forcibly eject such a fellow, in the interests of decency and order, might somehow turn out to be a State prison offense, while to remonstrate with him might probably be the signal for a little promiscuous shooting, for which he would not unlikely go unpunished. In such a case, therefore, people who value their lives and their liberty cautiously let the insolent rowdy alone, and congratulate themselves that they have not happened to the recipient of his attentions. As for the drivers and conductors of street cars, we have yet to hear of one who will turn a passenger out for any reason short of being unable to pay his fare. He may be disgustingly drunk, filthy in speech or violent in conduct; but the company's servants, having but a low idea at any time of the decencies proper to a public conveyance, may probably have a certain sympathy with the offender, and will certainly not, unless in very exceptional cases, have him put out or arrested.

A melancholy illustration of how much a ruffian may dare and do with the tolerance of on-lookers was given on Tuesday night. Mr. Avery D. Putnam was a passenger in a Broadway car, and was accompanied by two ladies. He occupied a seat near the door opening on the front platform. Beside the driver stood a man named Foster, said to be an ex-conductor of the Broadway and Seventh avenue line. This fellow took it into his head to exercise the natural right of a New York rough to insult a lady. He opened the door several times, and by look and action behaved insolently towards the younger of Mr. Putnam's female companions. A quiet remonstrance from the gentleman appears to have been regarded by the rowdy as a perfectly unwarranted interference with his special prerogatives. Awaiting the time when Mr. Putnam and his companions alighted, Foster seized the hook of the apparently sympathetic driver, and stepping from the car, delivered his victim a blow on the head which fractured the skull, and will probably result fatally. A more atrocious outrage it would be impossible to imagine, and its significance lies in the fact that nobody who has any experience of night-cars will be greatly astonished at it. People will say that the safest rule in such cases is not to notice the affront, but quietly to get out of harm's way by alighting. But will they at the same time reflect how utterly degrading to the inhabitants of the greatest city of the greatest of free people is the confession involved here? Our roughs have got the upper hand of us, and we give a sneaking indorsement to their rule. Theirs is the unbridled license, and ours the quaking submission. Theirs is the power to command executive pardons, pigeon-holed indictments, and reverence from the police. Ours are the taxes that maintain ruffianism in riotous and insolent ease, and ours are the votes they are hired to render worthless.

The morbidly cautious passengers of a street car are but a type of the society to which they belong. We are sacrificing manhood, fair play, chivalry, everything that is worth being proud of, from a slavish fear of the dregs of our populace who have come to the surface. How inseparable are political misrule and social license is brought home to every man's understanding by an incident like the present. If our ruffians were not pampered, flattered, and paid by the knavish ring that misgoverns us, they would be far less bold and infinitely less dangerous. There is no perceptible dividing line between the men who, if the law did its duty, would be in the State Prison and the men who control both the prevention and the punishment of crime. Their interests are perfectly identical, and those who believe in the stability of the one will be likely to fear to dispute the immunities of the other. If the public who ride in street cars would respect themselves a little more, and the class of rowdies a little less, we should soon see a marked reform in the insolent demeanor of these worthies, and perhaps a corresponding regard to decency in their political patrons. It will be but a melancholy consolation to the relatives of Mr. Putnam to be told that he has fallen a victim to such brutal passion as grows up side by side with political depravity, and to whose excesses we are all equally liable. The present offense is so monstrous that it cannot fail to excite a universal sentiment of public indignation. It may thus help to direct attention to the primary causes that render such an act possible. It will, without doubt, incite a general demand for the better regulation of our street cars and a more careful choice of the men to whom they are entrusted. Mr. Putnam's unprovoked and brutal murder may thus, by the startling disclosure it affords of the need for reform, be the means of producing a partial remedy for similar outrages. For his sorrowing friends every respectable inhabitant of this community will have but one sentiment of heartfelt sympathy, and for his dastardly assailant but one indignant demand for the full measure of justice.

—M. Thiers, in a speech to the Assembly, tells the country that the situation is painful; that French blood is still flowing, but it is consoling to know that the denouement is near.

HIS WILL.

The Late William F. Hughes, President of the City National Bank.

The will of the late President of the City National Bank, William F. Hughes, has been admitted to probate. His executors are his daughter, Anna L. Reed, and Edward H. Trotter and Josiah Kisterbock. Mr. Hughes before his last illness had prepared a bronze statue of himself to surmount his grave, where now it may be seen. He gives to his wife his house and lot at Arch and Thirteenth streets, "for so long as she shall remain my widow," and upon like condition an annuity of $1500. He gives, further, to the Pennsylvania Company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities, $25,000 in trust, the net interest of which is to be paid to his wife "for her own sole and separate use," the principal to be divided among all her children living at her death. He gives to the same company his house and lot on the west side of Second street, below Christian, for the use of his brother Edward D. Hughes, and $10,000 in trust, the interest of which shall be given to him. Also, to the same company $15,000 in trust, the interest of which shall be for the benefit of his brother Edward's three daughters, Indiana K., Virginia L, and Clara F. Hughes.

Next he devises to his own daughter, Anna L. Reed, his dwelling-house, on the northwest corner of Sixteenth and Chesnut streets, and also "all my household furniture, plate, pictures, books, and articles of domestic use on hand at my decease. This devise and bequest being subject to my wife's right to retain possession thereof for one year, if she shall elect so to do."

All the rest of his estate and property he gives to the Pennsylvania Company for Insurance, etc., in trust, the income whereof shall go to his daughter, Anna L. Reed, and after her decease then the same is to be paid over and divided among her children.

Codocil number 1 states that, having sold his house at Thirteenth and Arch streets (part of his wife's income under the will), he substitutes an additional annuity of $1500.

Codocil 2 leaves $500 in trust, the interest to be applied to keeping the lot enclosing his vault in good order, and then says:—"No part of my real estate in the city of Philadelphia, lying between South street and Vine street, from and to the river Schuylkill and Delaware, that is to say the following: The house I now live in at the northwest corner of Sixteenth and Chesnut, and the drug store at the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Chesnut; my three large stores on Market, south side, west of Eighth street, 75 feet front on Market street, and about 300 feet to Jayne street; three stores on east side of Second street, and my block of buildings at the northwest corner of Second and South streets, together with the house built in the last century by my grandfather, now occupied by my brother rents that are well secured, shall not be sold, but held in trust for the benefit of my grand-children so long as any or either of them shall live; in all cases the estate is to go to my heirs, the balance of my real estate to be sold at public sale within two years of my decease. I do order that not more than two per cent. shall be paid to my trustees for collecting and paying over the income. I have by my will appointed the Pennsylvania Company my trustees; if they should not accept these terms, the next trustees shall be the Girard Life and Trust, and the next the Safe Deposit."

FIRST MORTGAGE

7 PER CENT. GOLD BONDS,

On a Completed Road,

Free of U. S. Tax,

At 90 and Accrued Interest in Currency.

Burlington, Cedar Rapids, and Minnesota Railway.

The completion of this Road has given to these Bonds an established character equal to any mortgage issue dealt in at the Stock Exchange. We are prepared to buy and sell them at any time, at our Banking House, at market price—thus placing them on the same basis, for temporary or permanent investments, with Governments or any other security.

These bonds are a first and only mortgage on a railroad that has cost double the amount of the issue, and which commands, without competition, all the traffic of Northern Iowa and Southern Minnesota—shortening the distance from St. Paul to Chicago 45 miles, and to St. Louis more than 90 miles.

The net earnings are already largely in excess of interest on the bonds, and no doubt exists that they will more than double within the ensuing year.

A contract has been secured with the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad Company obligating the latter to invest 50 per cent. of gross earnings derived from traffic with the Burlington, Cedar Rapids, and Minnesota Road in the bonds of this Company. This arrangement is a strong guarantee of the Bonds, and establishes a large sinking fund for their redemption.

The convertibility privilege in these bonds enables them to be exchanged for stock, at par, at any time. This secures to the holder, at his option, a share in any excess of earnings over the interest obligation.

An exchange of Government securities for these bonds returns 9½ per cent. interest, instead of 5 per cent., which is all that Government pays at present price, besides leaving an immediate gain of about 20 per cent. in price for reinvestment.

All marketable securities taken in exchange, free of commission and express charges.

THE GAS LOAN BILL.

In the debate on the Gas Loan bill at the last meeting of Common Council, the broad doctrine was laid down that "the Supreme Court had decided that Councils have no control over the Gas Trustees. They ask for money, and the Councils have nothing else to do but to give it to them," the penalty of a refusal to acknowledge this doctrine being a neglect to supply rural districts with gas. Under this ruling it is not so strange, after all, that the Gas Ring controls the city, nominates candidates for office, enriches its favorites, charges extortionate prices for gas, swells the municipal debt, and, after overtaxing individual citizens in detail, makes annual levies, ranging from $500,000 to $1,000,000, or even larger sums, upon the City Treasury. Since all this is done under color of furnishing ways and means for supplying the city economically and regularly with gas, let us be devoutly thankful that no similar machinery has yet been put in operation for supplying anything else; for if a few more such rings were permitted to fatten on the public, the city would become uninhabitable. The only wonder is that all our grasping politicians do not make desperate struggles for entrance into the magic circle; but perhaps the frequency of the gas loans, when rightly construed, means that it is being rapidly widened.

Common Council has been paralyzed by the doctrine that the citizens and tax-payers of Philadelphia have no rights which the Gas Trustees are bound to respect; and the only hope left for effective resistance to this extraordinary theory of the existing relations between the sovereign people and their usurping servants rests now in Select Council. If they can be made willing slaves of the ring, we may expect loan bill to follow loan bill, gas works to be built up or torn down for frivolous and insufficient reasons, unnecessary expenditures to be multiplied, and the system of rigid accountability—without which there never was and never can be, in popular governments, a pure and honest administration—contemptuously set aside. Old legends tell of slaves of the lamp, and the prosaic facts connected with the Gas Trust indicate a determination to convert the citizens of Philadelphia into subservient subjects of the Gas Ring. It remains for Select Council to decide whether such a scheme is to be successful.

THE INDIANS.

Reports from New Mexico and Arizona give distressing accounts of Indian outrages, and it is said that the conduct of the savages indicates a determination on their part to utterly annihilate the whites. The Indians in the section referred to have always been considered the most bloodthirsty and least tractable of any upon the continent, and if they have actually determined upon a grand summer campaign against the whites, harrowing scenes of blood will be enacted between now and next winter which will certainly not make the philanthropic labors of those who desire to civilize the red men more easy than they have been. The military assistance demanded by the people of New Mexico should be granted, and the present force of United States troops in those Territories largely increased, so that the savages may at least be held in check and taught that they cannot murder with impunity. While the efforts of the Christian people who are laboring for the welfare of the Indians are worthy of every encouragement, no false notions of philanthropy should be allowed to interfere with the prompt and severe punishment of the savages if they persist in amusing themselves by murdering and outraging the whites upon the Western plains; and it is better that the whole aboriginal race should be annihilated than that the progress of civilization should be impeded in order that they may be permitted to use the tomahawk and scalping-knife at pleasure. It is gratifying to see, however, that those who have interested themselves in the Indians are, in spite of the many difficulties against which they are obliged to contend, endeavoring resolutely to achieve as great results as are possible. The entrusting of the purchase of Indian goods to the Executive Committee of the Indian Commission, instead of leaving the matter entirely in the hands of Commissioner Parker, was an important move in the right direction, for which Congress is entitled to credit. The committee appointed by the President, which consists of Messrs. George H. Stuart, of Philadelphia; John V. Farwell, of Chicago; Robert Campbell, of St. Louis; and William E. Dodge, of New York, met yesterday in New York to open bids; and the result of their appointment, and the assurance of honest dealing held out by it, were apparent in the reception of bids from some of the best and most responsible houses in New York, Philadelphia, and other cities. Many of the houses now offering to supply Indian goods have never been able heretofore to obtain any consideration for their bids, and have of late declined to submit any, for the reason that fair and honorable treatment could not be had from the Indian ring. The committee is composed of gentlemen of unimpeachable character, and as one of the principal sources of trouble with the savages has been in the swindling practices of the agents who purchased and distributed the goods promised by the Government, it is to be hoped that the reform now being inaugurated will result in permanent benefits to both white and red men.

The daily reports by cable telegrams of dreadful scenes in Paris and of French confusion, frightful as they are, seem tame when compared with the detailed descriptions furnished by mail correspondents. The once gay capital seems to be under the control of men whose highest ambition is to re-enact the worst horrors of the first Revolution. Order, law, common sense, and religion are subverted by a new Reign of Terror. The most terrible crimes are again perpetrated in the name of liberty, and the professed champions of freedom are guilty of the most dreadful and varied acts of tyranny. A body of lunatics suddenly turned loose could not act more desperately and illogically, and the only consoling feature of the rule of the Commune must be sought in the fact that its inefficiency, recklessness, stupidity, and criminality must necessarily lead to its destruction. The amazing part of the situation is the continued inability of France and the better part of Paris to educe order out of this chaos. Can it be that the gay city of criminal indulgence has not yet sufficiently expiated her past offenses, and that a long list of miseries are yet reserved for her? Must a prolonged siege, famine, pestilence, and fratricidal war be followed by absolute destruction?

OBITUARY.

Joseph W. Scott.

Colonel Joseph W. Scott, a distinguished member of the New Jersey bar, died at New Brunswick on Thursday night. At the time of his death he was the oldest lawyer in the State, having been licensed as an attorney in 1801 and as a counsellor in 1804. He was a prominent member of the Order of Freemasons, and was Grand Master in New Jersey from 1830 to 1834. He was also a member of the Society of the Cincinnati, and was president of it for many years. Colonel Scott was an eloquent pleader, and was especially successful in criminal cases.

Lucien Moreau.

Lucien Moreau, an American citizen who fell during the late Franco-Prussian war while fighting for the French cause, was a descendant of Marshall Moreau, and was born in Louisiana about 1824. In 1854 he was a follower of Lopez in his Cuban expedition, but managed to escape the fete of that adventurer. He subsequently participated in the Nicaragua raid of Walker. During the Rebellion he fought in the ranks of the Louisiana Tigers at Bull Run, and afterwards became attached to Stonewall Jackson's command as a scout. Afterwards he wos in J. E. B. Stuart's cavalry. During the recent European war Moreau was an officer of franco-tireurs, but when or how his death occurred is not known.

CITY NOTICES.

TO THE AMERICAN PUBLIC.
TESTIMONIALS.

The manufacture and the great practical worth of the Sanborn Steam Fire-proof Safe having been fully established, it is now offered to the business public, and offered with assurance, supported by indisputable facts, that it is THE BEST SAFE IN THE WORLD, for it has been proved, again and again, to far outlast in a fire those that have heretofore been regarded as the very best. It is most thoroughly made, and of the best material, is furnished with Sargent's celebrated Magnetic Combination Lock, than which there is none better, and in all burglar-proof qualities it is unsurpassed, while for beauty of style and finish, freedom from dampness and all inconvenience in use, as in its power to resist fire, it is without a rival. It is therefore assuming nothing but simple justice to the facts to offer the Steam Safe as the most thoroughly scientific, most complete, and perfect safe that can be obtained. In support of these claims we call attention to a few of the testimonials it has won:—

WHAT IS SAID OF IT.

"The fire-proof quality of the Steam Improvement is established beyond question; and since so many safes, in recent great fires, have failed to preserve their contents, an improvement like this must be welcomed with great satisfaction."—Boston Daily Advertiser.

"This Steam Improvement will effect a thorough revolution in safe-making."—Philadelphia Evening Herald, Sept. 21, 1867.

"This safe affords, undoubtedly, the best protection against fire of any one in the market."—Bangor Whig, Feb. 15, 1868.

"It seems to be the only safe that deserves the name FIRE-PROOF."—Worcester Daily Spy, Jan. 14, 1868.

"The Steam Attachment is decidedly the greatest improvement we have ever seen in Fire-proof safes, and the result of the trial proves that all that was claimed for the invention it has accomplished."—North American and United States Gazette, Nov. 14, 1867.

"Sanborn's invention has been proved by the most satisfactory tests to be exactly what its manufacturers represent."—Portland Daily Press, March 3, 1868.

"In the tests to which these safes have been subjected their absolute security is demonstrated beyond the possibility of cavil."—Forney's Philadelphia Press, Nov. 12, 1867.

SCHENCK'S COLUMN.

HOW TO CURE CONSUMPTION.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF DR. SCHENCK'S GREAT MEDICINES—Will people never learn to know that a diseased liver and stomach necessarily disease the entire system? The plainest principles of common sense teach this, and yet there are thousands who ridicule the idea and continue in a course which almost inevitably brings them prematurely to the grave. Living, as the majority of the people do, at complete variance with the laws of nature, it must be apparent to all that, sooner or later, nature will revenge herself. Hence we find that persons who indulge to excess in the use of very rich or indigestible food or intoxicating drinks, invariably pay a heavy penalty in the end. The stomach becomes disordered, and refuses to act; the liver fails to perform its functions; dyspepsia and its attendant evils follow, and still the suffering individuals persist in clinging to the thoroughly exploded ideas of the past. Dr. Schenck's medicines are recommended to all such. They bring sure and certain relief wherever they are used as directed, and all that is necessary to establish their reputation with every ailing man or woman in the land is a fair and impartial trial of them. Let those who are skeptical on this point, and who have permitted interested persons to prejudice them against these now celebrated remedies for consumption, discard their prejudices, and be governed by the principles of reason and common sense. If the system is disordered, depend upon it, in nine cases out of ten the seat of the disorder will be found in the stomach and liver. To cleanse and invigorate the stomach and to stimulate the liver to healthy action, use

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS.—The daily increasing demand for these pills is the best evidence of their value. Thousands upon thousands of boxes are sold daily. Why? Simply because they act promptly and efficiently. Invalids who may not find it convenient to call on Dr. Schenck in person, are informed that full and complete directions for use accompany each package of the MANDRAKE PILLS, PULMONIC SYRUP, AND SEAWEED TONIC.—These medicines will cure Consumption, unless the lungs are so far gone that the patient is entirely beyond the reach of medical relief.

It may be asked, by those who are not familiar with the virtues of these great remedies, "How do Dr. Schenck's medicines effect their wonderful cures of Consumption?"

The answer is a simple one. They begin their work of restoration by bringing the stomach, liver, and bowels into an active, healthy condition. It is food that cures this formidable disease. Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver and stomach, promoting healthy secretion, and removing the bile and slime which have resulted from the inactive or torpid condition of these organs and of the system generally. This sluggish state of the body and the consequent accumulation of the unhealthy substances named prevent the proper digestion of food, and as a natural consequence create disease, which results in prostration, and finally in death.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, when taken regularly, mingle with the food, aid the digestive organs, make good, rich blood, and, as a natural consequence, give flesh and strength to the patient. Let the faculty say what it may, this is the only true cure for consumption. Experience has proved it beyond the shadow of a doubt, and thousands are to-day alive and well who a few years since were regarded as hopeless cases, but who were induced to try Dr. Schenck's remedies, and were restored to permanent health by their use.

One of the first steps the physician should take with a consumptive patient is to invigorate the system. Now, how is this to be done? Certainly not by giving medicines that exhaust and enervate—medicines that impair instead of improve the functions of the digestive organs. Dr. Schenck's medicines cleanse the stomach and bowels of all substances which are calculated to irritate or weaken them. They create an appetite—promote healthful digestion—make good blood, and, as a consequence, they invigorate and strengthen the entire system, and more especially those parts which are diseased. If this cannot be done, then the case must be regarded as a hopeless one.

If the physician finds it impossible to make a patient feel hungry, if the diseased person cannot partake of good nourishing food and properly digest it, it is impossible that he can gain flesh and strength; and it is equally impossible to bring a patient to this condition so long as the liver is burdened with diseased bile, and the stomach laden with unhealthy slime.

Almost the first request made to the physician by a consumptive patient is that he will prescribe medicine that will remove or allay the cough, night sweats and chills, which are the sure attendants on Consumption. But this should not be done, for the cough is only an effort of nature to relieve itself, and the night sweats and chills are caused by the diseased lungs. The remedies ordinarily prescribed do more harm than good. They impair the functions of the stomach, impede healthy digestion, and aggravate rather than cure the disease.

There is, after all, nothing like facts with which to substantiate a position, and it is upon facts that Dr. Schenck relies. Nearly all who have taken his medicines in accordance with his directions have not only been cured of consumption, but from the fact that these medicines act with wonderful power upon the digestive organs, patients thus cured speedily gain flesh. Cleansing the system of all impurities, they lay the foundation for a solid, substantial structure. Restoring these organs to health, they create an appetite. The food is properly assimilated; the quantity of blood is not only increased, but it is made rich and strong, and in the face of such condition of the system all diseases must be banished.

Full directions accompany each of the medicines, so that it is not absolutely necessary that patients should see Dr. Schenck personally, unless they desire to have lungs examined.

Advice given without charge, but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer the charge is five dollars.

SEWING MACHINES.

DO NOT BUY

A Sewing Machine

Until you have seen and examined the American Button-hole, Over-seaming Sewing Machine, the great triumph of inventive genius. It is claimed for this Machine that it will supply all the various necessities of the household in the sewing line. We claim for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a family machine. The simplicity, ease, and certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work throughout the entire range of sewing, in stitching, hemming, felling, tucking, cording, braiding, quilting, gathering, and sewing on, over-seaming, embroidering on the edge, and its beautiful button-hole and eyelet-hole work, place it unquestionably far in advance of any machine now before the public.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really TWO MACHINES COMBINED IN ONE (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity), making both the lock stitch and button-hole stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with these advantages, which are exclusively its own, the most desirable advantages of all others.

The splendid mechanism of this machine, and the superior skill, workmanship, and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength, and durability, and enable the company and their agents to warrant every machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

The public are invited to examine this remarkable machine. See it work and judge for themselves, by calling at the Company's

OUR RELIGIOUS COLUMN.

ONE BY ONE.

They are gathering homeward from every land,
One by one;
As their weary feet touch the shining strand,
One by one;
Their brows are inclosed in a golden crown,
Their travel-stained garments are all laid down,
And, clothed with white raiments, they rest on the mead,
Where the Lamb loveth His chosen to lead,
One by one.

Before they rest they pass through the strife,
One by one;
Through the waters of death they enter life,
One by one;
To some are the floods of the river still,
As they ford their way to the heavenly hill;
To others the waves run fiercely and wild,
Yet all reach the home of the undefiled,
One by one.

We too shall come to the river's side,
One by one;
We are nearer its waters each even-tide,
One by one;
We can hear the noise and dash of the stream,
Now and again, through our life's deep dream—
Sometimes the floods o'er the banks o'erflow,
Sometimes in ripples the small waves go,
One by one.

Jesus! Redeemer! we look to Thee,
One by one;
We lift up our voices tremblingly,
One by one;
The waves of the river are dark and cold,
We know not the spots where our feet may hold.
Thou, who didst pass through in deep midnight,
Strengthen us, send us the staff and the light,
One by one.

Plant Thou Thy feet beside as we tread,
One by one;
On Thee let us lean each drooping head,
One by one;
Let but Thy mighty arm round us be twined,
We'll cast all our fears and cares to the wind;
Saviour! Redeemer! with Thee full in view,
Smilingly, gladsomely, shall we pass through,
One by one.

THAT BLESSED HOPE.

"By grace are ye saved." And the same grace by which we are "called," and "justified," and "established," and helped "in time of need," not only brings salvation to mankind, but also teaches them "that denying ungodly and worldly lusts, they should live soberly, and righteously, and godly in this present world, looking for that Blessed Hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ; who gave himself for us, that He might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto Himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works."

The faith, the hope, and the conduct of the followers of Christ are thus brought under the direction of the saving grace of God. The world's ungodliness and lusts are to be discarded, and the world's hopes are as vain as its lusts are vile. The hopes of joy in earth's vanities, of peace in paths of sin, and of golden days in a world that reeks with guilt, and tramples scornfully on the Saviour's blood, are doomed to sad terrible disappointments. Such hopes cannot abide the trials of life, the agonies of death, and the stern realities of judgment and eternity.

For those who would build upon a sure foundation, "a better hope" is prepared, "which hope we have as an anchor to the soul," entering "into that within the vail." And those "who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before them," have obtained "through patience and comfort of the Scriptures," "a lively hope," a sure and steadfast hope, a "good hope through grace," a "hope of salvation," a "hope of eternal life," a "hope of the glory of God," a hope of the "resurrection of the dead," a hope of being like Jesus and seeing Him "as He is," a blessed hope of the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ;—a hope that "maketh not ashamed, because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost."

LAY HOLD ON GOD.

Are there times when all things here seem hollow and unreal, with vanity and emptiness written upon them—times when there seems to us, as there seemed once to the royal preacher at Jerusalem, no profit to a man of any labor wrought under the sun; but vanity of vanities, and all vanity? What help is there against this, the worst sickness of the soul, save in laying hold of Him who is not hollow, not unreal, not a shadow nor a dream; who abides forever, and who causes His servants to inherit substance; what help but in laying hold of Him, as He can be only laid hold of in prayer? Or, again, are there other times when the world threatens to become too much to us—the near hillocks of time to hide from us the more distant mountains of eternity—earth's tinsel to outshine heaven's gold? It is in God, in the light of His presence, as we press into that presence, that all things assume their due proportions, are seen in their true significance—the tinsel for tinsel, the gold for gold; that the hillocks subside, and the mountain-tops appear; that the shadows flee away, and the eternal substances remain.—Trench.

SUMMARY OF CHURCH NEWS.

EPISCOPAL.

—A correspondent of the Protestant Churchman has a list of thirty-two presbyters who are in the habit of making the omission of the word "regenerate." They are distributed through seven dioceses. Several of them are doctors of divinity. Many of them have done this with the knowledge of their bishops.

—The Purchase case has become the subject of a voluminous correspondence, which is of little interest to outside readers, as it relates to technicalities and details. The principal fact which has taken place is that Mr. Purchase has made two applications for a rehearing. The first application was, for some reason, not acted upon. The second was referred to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, who took the matter into consideration, and appointed the 26th of April to hear the application. The council of the Church Association have come to the conclusion that the decision does not prohibit the use of the black gown in preaching.

—The Rev. William Stewart, of Waterford, N. J., was found on Easter Monday dying in his garden, and before any medical assistance could be summoned he was dead.

—The property known as St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Boston, has been transferred by the corporation of the parish to the rector, wardens, and vestry of Trinity Church. By thus enlisting the interest of Phillips Brooks, it is hoped to infuse new life into that enterprise.

—The Pacific Churchman says that Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota, has been invited to take the Diocese of Honolulu, in the Sandwich Islands. It is thought he may accept the position on account of his health requiring a milder climate.

—On Sunday, the 16th instant, Rev. Dr. Tyng, of New York, preached his semi-centennial sermon, in which he stated that he has, in the half century, delivered 10,000 sermons, has received 3000 persons by profession into the church, and has had 25,000 children under instruction in his Sabbath-schools. Fifty young men have been prepared for the ministry under his instruction. His congre-jects $3,000,000, besides $600,000 for the building of four churches and six chapels.

—A Paris correspondent of the Churchman says that the American Episcopal Church in that city did not close its doors a single Sabbath during the siege.

—Bishop Huntington and Dr. Clark, of Syracuse, N. Y., in discussing the Cheney question in the secular papers, declare that baptismal regeneration is a doctrine of the Bible, and of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and defend Bishop Whitehouse in suspending Mr. Cheney.

BAPTIST.

—The National Baptist gives the statistics for 1870 from the Baptist Year Book of 1871. The statistics are fuller than those for the previous year, but still marred by many deficiencies arising from the failure of local associations to report. Nevertheless, important gains are indicated by the following figures:—

	Churches.	Ministers.	Baptized.	Members.
1870	17,745	10,818	77,795	1,419,493
1869	15,143	8,787	70,172	1,231,349
Gain	2,602	2,031	7,623	198,144

Maine falls back a little in its figures, as it did in 1869 and in 1868. Nebraska has increased her 756 Baptists to 1000, and also reports seven new churches. New York State is not doing well. Her net gain in members is only 114, while the number of her churches has retrograded from 842 to 839. Pennsylvania has gained 12 churches, 3 ministers, and 5096 members during the year. The three States having the largest number of Baptists are: Georgia, with 134,337; Virginia, with 122,120; and New York, with 100,616. Sunday-school statistics are given as follows:—

	Schools.	Officers and Teachers.	Scholars.	Benevolent Contrib.
1870	5,251	56,515	473,664	$122,143·10
1869	3,594	37,881	337,647	73,927·13
Gain	1,657	18,634	136,017	$48,115·97

—The Missionary Union closes the year prosperously. The total receipts are a little over $202,500, and the expenditures are just $486·94 in excess of the receipts.

—Rev. R. M. Luther, formerly a missionary in Burmah, will preach at the Tabernacle Baptist Church, in this city, to-morrow.

PRESBYTERIAN.

—The United Presbyterians have thirteen organized congregations in New York and Brooklyn and the neighboring cities in New Jersey.

—A "railway chapel" was dedicated at Dennison, Ohio, on April 6, for the use of the officers and hands of the "Panhandle" Railroad, which has its workshops at that place. This chapel is said to be the second building of the kind in the country.

—There are forty-one Presbyterian churches on the line of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne, and Chicago Railroad. Of all the ministers who were supplying these churches two years ago, only ten now remain.

—At the regular semi-annual meeting of the Reformed Presbytery of Pittsburg the congregation of Ebenezer, Mercer county, Pa., were dismissed, on their own petition, to connect themselves with the United Presbyterian Presbytery of Butler. At the same meeting the congregation of Hermon, at their own request, were dismissed to connect themselves with the United Presbyterian Presbytery of Mercer.

—The church of Sandusky, Crawford county, having unanimously requested it, was placed upon the roll of the churches of the Presbytery of Central Ohio.

—The Rev. T. P. W. Magruder, a former member of the late Schuyler Presbytery, and a signer of the Declaration and Testimony, who renounced the jurisdiction of that Presbytery because of the action of the Assembly of 1867, that met in Cincinnati, has been received as a member of the Presbytery of Central Ohio. He is now preaching for the church at Bladensburg, Ohio.

—During the session of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, to be held in Chicago in May next, a daily paper will be issued, called the Daily General Assembly Journal, containing a full report of the proceedings of the Assembly.

—The Chinese Mission Church of San Francisco, Cal., under the care of Rev. A. W. Loomis, numbering fifteen members, has contributed $75 to the Memorial Fund, fifty of which is to be appropriated to the erection of a training school for Chinamen in San Francisco, and the remaining twenty-five to the education of a native medical and theological student in Canton.

METHODIST.

—The Rev. T. B. Taylor, Methodist, has been excluded by the Kansas Conference for entertaining Swedenborgian and spiritualistic doctrines. The examination was protracted, and the final vote largely against him.

—In the Circuit Court of Norfolk county, Va., recently, the church property of the Methodist Protestant church at Good Hope was transferred to the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

—A convention of ministers and laymen from all the annual conferences in the Southern States is to be held in Athens, Ga., on June 15 and the two following days, for the discussion of educational and other practical questions relating to the progress of Christian work in the South.

—The Methodist says the three years' rule for ministers works well in New England. Twenty-two ministers who had served in their respective charges two years were returned to the same churches for the third year, and thirteen closed their third year's pastorate. Most of them testify that the third year was the most successful of the three.

—On his own responsibility, Dr. Carlton has appointed three experts to examine the accounts of the Book Concern during his connection with it.

—A cottage is being built at Long Branch as a gift to Bishop Simpson. President Grant made the first subscription of $100.

—During the past year the Methodist Church Extension Society raised $130,000, and erected 210 church edifices.

—The Presbyterians of Philadelphia will hold a joint meeting at 4 o'clock P. M. to-morrow, in the Seventh Presbyterian Church (Rev. Mr. Cook's), Broad street and Penn Square. Interesting addresses are expected from Rev. Dr. Ellinwood, Hon. William E. Dodge, and W. S. Gilman, Esq., of New York, relative to the present condition and successful completion of the $5,000,000 memorial fund. Rev. Drs. Willits and Humphrey of this city will also make addresses. The object is not to collect funds, but to interest every Presbyterian in the completion of this good work before the meeting of the General Assembly in May.

CONGREGATIONAL.

—The Northwestern Association of Iowa has withdrawn its fellowship from the Rev. E. C. Miles, of Springvale, because of his denial of the inspiration of the Bible and the divinity of Christ.

—Rev. H. G. Mench, for twenty years a Methodist minister, has joined the Congregational Church at Lawrence, Kansas.

gational churches of New York and Brooklyn, recently held in Brooklyn, a resolution was passed, declaring it to be for the interest of the body that an executive union conference be formed, whose duty it shall be to aid in forming and sustaining new churches in the metropolitan districts. In the discussion of woman's work in the churches, Dr. Storrs and Mr. Beecher expressed the opinion that woman should not only be permitted but encouraged to pray in public and address meetings.

—Two missionaries of the American Board have recently died—Rev. Horace S. Taylor, of the Madura (India) Mission, who died February 3, at the age of fifty-seven, and Rev. W. F. Williams, who died at Mardin, Turkey, February 14, at the age of fifty-three.

—The Congregational Association has purchased the property at the corner of Beacon and Somerset streets, Boston, Mass., which, together with the adjoining estate, to be secured as soon as the needed funds are raised, will be fitted up for the use of the various boards and associations of the denomination.

—The continued ill health of the Rev. John Monteith, with a disease which is pronounced incurable, unless he abandons ministerial labor, has compelled his resignation of the pastorate of the Mayflower Church, St. Louis.

ROMAN CATHOLIC.

—"Dr. Dollinger," says the London Saturday Review, "is the one Catholic divine of Germany who enjoys a European reputation both without and within the bounds of his own communion, whose piety no ultramontane has ventured to question."

—The Roman Catholic College of Maynooth, the grant to which was withdrawn under the act for the disestablishment of the Irish Church, has, it is said, within the last few days, received from the Church Commissioners the sum of £360,000 by way of compensation.

—The Pope is said to have lately granted audience to a messenger from Bishop Dupanloup, of Orleans, who was prominent among the opposition in the Œcumenical Council, tendering the submission of his own opinions to the decision of the Church. A cardinal's hat is held out in prospective as a reward for this obedience.

MORAVIAN.

—The Christian Advocate lately called attention to the fact that the Moravian Church, which is in a sense the parent of Methodism, has made such insignificant progress. In this country it has but 55 ministers and 25,000 people in its congregations; while Methodism numbers its preachers by thousands and its members by millions. The Moravian replies, in a courteous tone, that the Church of the Brethren has exerted a wide and salutary influence upon other churches, in conserving orthodoxy in Germany and in promoting a spirit of union in America, looking more to spiritual fellowship than growth in numbers.

UNIVERSALIST.

—It is a suggestive fact that to-morrow is the centennial birthday of Hosea Ballou. This name has long been regarded by large numbers of people as the synonym of very gross and mischievous errors. But saying nothing now of his opinions, his one-hundredth birthday can scarcely fail to suggest:—1. How powerless what are called unfavorable circumstances are to hinder a man from wide and eminent influence if he really has the stuff of manhood in him; and, 2. How great have been the changes in theological opinion and religious organization in this country during these hundred years past. Mr. Ballou was born in Richmond, N. H., then almost a wilderness, April 30, 1771. His father was a Baptist preacher, a good man, but so exceedingly poor that the inevitable hardships of pioneer life beset his children in their most rugged form. A rougher a more destitute childhood, as regards conveniences and advantages, it would be difficult to imagine. But in the case of young Hosea it proved the germ of a great manhood. He joined his father's church when he was eighteen, but he was a Universalist preacher before he was twenty-one. His second attempt to preach was a failure, and an elder brother (father of Rev. Moses Ballou, of this city) had to finish his discourse. But he soon grew into eminence, and in his prime is said to have been a preacher of wonderful simplicity and power. The Universalist Church does not now generally hold some of his opinions, but no man has done so much as he to shape its fundamental principles or to give origin and impetus to what is called Liberal Christianity in America. The denomination will of right widely commemorate his centenary birthday, and his character and work are to be the topics of sermons to-morrow morning by Rev. Messrs. Ballou and Brooks, the Universalist pastors of this city.

MISSIONARY.

—Mr. Leonard, of Marsovan, Turkey, writes as follows of the observance of the week of prayer at that mission:—

"It may interest you that a small congregation of enlightened Armenians and Greeks here, on the shores of the Black Sea, are observing the week of prayer. About thirty persons, including women and children, meet every evening in an upper room, leased by the board, and, following the order of topics suggested by the Evangelical Alliance, engage in prayer and praise. Pains are taken to give to the meetings a social character, and to have the room attractive and pleasant. A merchant brother brings some Turkish carpets to cover the hard wood floor, making a nice seat for the children; a watch-tinker volunteers a marine clock, which finds a prominent place on the bulging mantelpiece; two native sisters arrange in good taste the usual supply of stiff cushions on the divans against the wall; and the low, unpainted candle-stand rejoices in a pure white table-spread. Our preaching is in Turkish. The singing is unqualifiedly congregational. If it sometimes lacks melody, the want is more than compensated by the delight which every one feels in having a part."

THE P. R. R.

Lease of the Camden and Amboy Railroad.

The committees of the Boards of Directors of the Pennsylvania Road and the Camden and Amboy Road and its branches, having agreed upon a lease by which the control of the latter will be transferred to the former company, it is probable that at the meetings of the companies on Monday next the action will be ratified by their respective stockholders. The Pennsylvania Company agrees to take the property and franchises of the united companies, and to assume all their obligations, paying ten per cent. per annum upon the capital stock of the companies. The united companies comprise the New Jersey Railroad and Transportation Company, the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company, the Philadelphia and Trenton Railroad Company, and the Delaware and Raritan Canal Company. The leased lines, which will also pass under the control of the Pennsylvania Company, extend over nearly every county in the southern half of the State, and their management will be of great moment to the people of a large portion of the State.

The extensive improvements at Harsimus Cove, in Jersey City, which, although long contemplated, the united companies have not been bold enough to undertake, in view of the insecurity of their hold on the Western business, will now be pushed forward. The Elevated Railway in Jersey City will be built, and the wide cove covered with freight and passenger buildings. It was the desire to have this great scheme carried out; the fear that the New Jersey Central would be leased by the Pennsylvania Company, and the doubt lest the National Railway Company should succeed by foreign aid in running an opposition line accross the State, that first prompted the directors of the united companies to accede to the proposition to lease their lands. The result, while it will, no doubt, be favorable to the companies, cannot in any case diminish the profits of the stockholders, which have hitherto for several years stood at 10 per cent. per annum upon their investments.

EMBOSSED BOOKS FOR THE BLIND.—Within a very few years past two organizations have existed for supplying a great need to the blind, namely, "The American Printing House," located at Louisville, Ky,, and "The National Association for Publishing Musical and Literary Works for the Blind," in Philadelphia. By the aid of benevolent subscriptions and an appropriation from the State of Kentucky already several important works have been printed in the raised letters, and gratuitously distributed to meritorious blind persons unable to purchase them.

But in order more effectually to carry out this good work, a union has been formed between the two associations, and the National Association becomes an auxiliary board, comprising the three States of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware, representing the North Atlantic States. The following prominent gentlemen have consented to form a portion of the board of trustees in connection with the managers of the National Association, viz.:—Jay Cooke, A. J. Drexel, Joseph W. Drexel, Alexander Whilldin, and Matthew Baird, of Philadelphia; Governor Theodore F. Randolph, ex-Governor Marcus L. Ward, and Senator F. T. Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey; ex-Governor Gove Saulsbury and Joseph P. Comegys, of the State of Delaware. The officers of the National Association now incorporated with the general board of trustees are William P. Chapin, President over twenty-six years, Principal of the Penna. Institution for the Education of the Blind; Professor E. J. Houston, Vice-President; Levi Knowles, Treasurer; W. B. Snyder, Secretary; and five intelligent graduates of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Blind. These will form a practical executive board familiar with the instruction and literary needs of those for whom this association has been established. H. L. Hall is the only authorized agent of the united associations.

DEATH OF AN ECCENTRIC CHARACTER.—Yesterday there died at the Navy Yard in this city a man who has long been the most eccentric character associated with the establishment. His name was Thomas Boyle, and he was well advanced in years, being over seventy. For about twenty years past he had held the position of bell-ringer in the yard. He was unmarried, and lived in very mean and uncomfortable quarters near the Navy Yard, although he was quite wealthy, the fortune left by him being estimated at about $80,000, the greater portion of which was invested in desirable real estate. Notwithstanding the fact that he was in possession of an ample income, he clung tenaciously to his petty post as bell-ringer, and only two weeks ago went down to League Island to ship as a common seaman at $17 per month, being refused on account of his age. Boyle was never known to purchase anything in the way of clothing. From every vessel that arrived at the yard he received gratuities of clothing in answer to his urgent appeals for help. Another of his eccentricities was his officiating as his own clothes-washer, an occupation at which he was frequently noticed in the yard. Boyle appeared to be afflicted with a mania for leaving a large sum of money behind him, in which he was certainly successful. Being unmarried, he leaves no near relatives to inherit his wealth, which doubtless falls to the lot of his next of kin, a cousin.

AT LEAGUE ISLAND there is soon to be a change in the commandant. The present commandant is Commodore James M. Frailey, who entered the service on May 1, 1828, and is therefore about completing the forty-third year of his service. On the 1st of May he goes on the retired list, which necessitates his being relieved on that date. It is not yet definitely settled who will be his successor. The recent appropriation of $200,000 by Congress to commence the work of preparing League Island for a grand iron-clad station makes its command one of the most desirable shore stations, and there are consequently several applications for the position. It is understood that the choice of the department will lie between Commodore J. R. Madison Mullany and Commodore Napoleon Collins. In a short time, it is believed that the importance of the League Island station will be fully recognized by the Government, and a rear-admiral appointed to the position of commandant.

A TEMPESTUOUS PASSAGE.—The ship Athenais, H. Baker, master, arrived yesterday afternoon from Antwerp. Captain Baker reports having experienced a succession of heavy westerly gales the entire passage, some of which were the heaviest he ever encountered. On April the first, in latitude 45 degrees and longitude 44 degrees west, the ship was struck by a terrific gale, or hurricane rather. The wind was perfectly furious. The sea was lashed into a foam, and the spray lifted high into the air, so as to blind officers and crew. The sails were torn to ribbons, and so furious was the gust that the men could do nothing but grasp the railing of the vessel to prevent being washed overboard. The hurricane lasted about an hour, and then abated into a gale which lasted six days.

CHURCH CONCERT.—The Market Square Presbyterian Church will give a concert at the Town Hall, Germantown, on Thursday evening next. The Handel & Haydn Society and other talent will assist, and the occasion will doubtless be a very pleasant one.

THE COAL TRADE.

The Prospects of a General Resumption—Luzerne not yet Ready—Lehigh and Schuylkill Anxious—Arbitration Again—The Complete Tonnage for the Week, etc.

The most conflicting reports are now being received as to the prospects of a general resumption of work in the anthracite coal regions. To some the situation looks encouraging, but opposite views are held by others. Some set the time for a general resumption at the 1st of May, but these will probably be disappointed in their calculations even as were those who fixed upon the 1st of April as the happy day. Some defer the period of industry as late as the 1st of June, and if work is not resumed before that time they will probably defer it again until the 1st of July, and so will continue deferring it until something is done. The explanation is that matters are so mixed up that no one knows definitely anything about it, and so cannot predict what will happen.

The question appears to be narrowing down in all the regions to very small limits. In one region the men have either to accept the offer of the owners of the mines or go to work without any agreement being made, taking the best they can get afterwards. In another region a spirit of concession on both sides is very evident, and would amount to something were it not that selfishly interested men, styling themselves leaders, stand in the way and insist upon seeing and judging everything that passes between the two parties, and preventing anything from coming to a head which in any way injures their own individual positions.

But whatever is done towards a settlement in any region cannot amount to a resumption of work until terms have been made in all parts and the regions are all ready to resume together; for until this is done the carrying companies will hold fast to their agreement and the high toll schedules, that is if they have the smallest particle of good faith between them, and by so doing will prevent any one region from resuming while the rest stand idle and so take the monopoly of the trade for the time. To such a course a majority of the operators are also opposed, for since matters have been brought to this pass they feel inclined to fight it through to some desirable end. If work were resumed in one region, the starving men in other regions would go to the working region and obtain work, and allow those who are better able to continue the strike in the other parts of the field. Some of the miners also are opposed to such a movement because they think that when one portion goes to work the rest will not be able to obtain as good terms, having to take what they can get, on account of the trade being supplied and the demand less. They, however, must remember that even if they should be successful in obtaining just what they want—which is very unlikely, because the demands are too high—a general resumption would in the present state of the trade so glut the market in a few weeks' time that the terms could not be paid, and then either another suspension must commence or a lower rate be accepted.

At present the Lehigh region appears to be in this state of readiness to resume and only awaits a settlement in the other regions. In Schuylkill no agreement is probable for a time, but the spirit is there, and it only awaits a fair chance to break through the thraldom of the leaders and act. Satisfactory arrangements on a basis with the co-operation of the railroad company can undoubtedly be made in a short time. The upper region appears to be the farthest from any general settlement.

That the position is as stated in Schuylkill is shown by the action on the proposition of the Philadelphia operators, which the leaders with all their influence were able to defeat by only a very small majority. The men in their district meetings, before the edicts of the interested parties were known, adopted it with alacrity. This was done in all places where it was considered, except in those districts where the leaders themselves reside.

The men who are standing out for higher pay, now that everything is lowering, after holding out and suffering so long, are exposing themselves only to the ridicule of the public and do not obtain any sympathy for their sufferings. Steady work at the highest of wages for months to come cannot recover what has been lost by the long-continued idleness. Such idleness must not expect sympathy. The wages that it is proposed to pay are high. No calculation should be made on basis wages, on which the miners always base their figures for publication, because many do not work upon basis at all, but upon contract. The average wages for contract work and the wages proposed per car by the companies in the upper regions are in reality higher than are obtained by skilled workers in many departments of trade. Miners are not skilled laborers, and to claim equal wages with carpenters, machinists, or other mechanics is enough, without clamoring for more and asking the sympathy of the world because it is not obtained.

In the Luzerne region the men are very anxious to resume, and as there is no hope for a basis there, the majority are ready to do as the companies wish, and go to work without any specific terms being made beforehand. Some of the miners are asking for a mass meeting to decide the question, but this the leaders resist for various reasons. This going to work without any arrangement may be for the best in that region, but if it were the issue in Schuylkill county it should not be favored; not on the same grounds, however, as those upon which the leaders of the miners disapproved of it. What is wanted here is something definite before anything is done, so as to prevent a recurrence of the same difficulties in the future.

The English system of arbitration does not appear to be as popular as it was, because it has been tried, and it has been found that it cannot work satisfactorily in connection with the W. B. A. as it is now organized and governed. The refusal of the miners to submit the questions in dispute to the decision of an umpire proves conclusively that they are in the wrong and know it. A fair umpire chosen and agreed upon by both parties must rule fairly or at least make a near approach to it. Such an umpire could give only a decision which would undoubtedly be against the miners, or at least the most unjust of their demands. They know that their demands are unjust, and therefore are rightly afraid to trust them to a fair judge whose decision they would be obliged to accept.

The following is the complete summary of the trade for the past week, as reported for the Pottsville Miners' Journal of to-day:—

The following is also from the Journal:—"The trade from the Shamokin region is largely increased this year, owing to the tolls being so much less both South and West by the Northern Central and Erie Railroads. They now monopolize the trade both South and West, while the supplies from the Wyoming region are all cut off going North, West and South."

"There is considerable coal going over the Birdsboro and Wilmington Railroad to Wilmington, where it is shipped to other ports. The tolls by this route are considerably less than by the Reading Road to Port Richmond.

"The supply of coal going forward, anthracite and bituminous together, with the increased importations of Nova Scotia coal, seems to supply present wants, although the prices for anthracite rule high, while those of bituminous coal have advanced but little.

"Dealers and consumers are afraid to purchase any coal, except for immediate wants, knowing that so soon as resumption takes place the rates will be reduced largely. Even the shipments by canal are largely curtailed, notwithstanding the rates to New York are $2.50 a ton less than via Richmond, because it is feared that resumption may take place before the cargo of coal arrives at New York from Schuylkill Haven. Under such circumstances, also, the greatest economy is practised which is telling largely on the consumption of this species of fuel. Wood and even gas is used largely for cooking purposes, where coal was formerly used, which is found much cheaper than the use of anthracite coal in New York and Philadelphia."

BEDFORD STREET MISSION.—Rev. J. D. Long makes an urgent appeal to the ladies of Philadelphia for second-hand clothing for the children of the Bedford Street Mission. All wearing apparel that can be spared should either be sent to the mission house or a note addressed to Mr. Long where it can be had, and he will have it brought to the mission. He asks also flowers, in little jars, for the Sabbath-school girls.

The Tax Levy Operations.

Erie Canal Disasters.

A Murderer's Sentence Commuted

Reported Death of Thalberg.

Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc

FROM NEW YORK.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Exclusively to The Evening Telegraph.

The Erie Canal Disaster.

ROCHESTER, April 29.—The breach in the Erie Canal at Oxboro is extensive; fully thirty thousand yards at least have gone out, and it will require fifteen days to repair it. Considerable damage has been done to farms, roads, and buildings below. The bridge was destroyed, a mill dam carried away, and one or two barns swept away. The canal boat Barney Bird was carried through the breach and left a mile distant, somewhat damaged. Two men and a woman were on the boat, but escaped injury. The canal authorities are taking active measures to repair the break. The earth will have to be drawn a considerable distance.

Operation of the Tax Levy.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The City Comptroller in a circular says, "The total amount that can be raised under the operation of the tax levy this year will fall short $7,000,000 of the amounts estimated for the several departments and purposes of the city and county governments including State taxes.

A considerable deduction must be made in the expenditures of the city and county governments the ensuing year. It becomes necessary to estimate that the expenses for the present year be revised for the purpose of giving data for the ultimate action in conforming to the required reduction of expenditures.

Sentence Commuted.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The President has commuted the sentence of Charles Perdue, sentenced to death for burning the ship Robert Edwards, to twelve years imprisonment.

The Shad War.

The attack of the Harbor Commissioners on North river shad poles will begin next Monday. A tug boat will be converted into a man-of-war for that occasion.

The New York Yacht Club.

Ex-Mayor Gunther has offered the use of his residence at Bath, on New York Bay, to the New York Yacht Club.

Reported Death of Thalberg, the Pianist.

THE MORRIS CANAL.—Yesterday afternoon a meeting of the directors of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company was held at No. 303 Walnut street, for the purpose of acting upon the proposed lease to that company of the Morris Canal, reaching from Phillipsburg and Easton to Jersey City. The directors of the canal company had already approved the lease, and directed their officers to execute it. Similar action was taken yesterday by the directors of the railroad company, and the lease will now be submitted to the stockholders, when, with the approval of a majority of the stock by the signatures of the holders confirming the agreement, the property will at once pass to the possession of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company.

A STEAM FIRE ENGINE TO BE CHANGED.—The ponderous machine known as Engine No. 19 is to be taken from Germantown, and another engine is to be substituted for it, better calculated for country service. Another horse has been sent out, which will in the meantime enable the foreman to get his engine to the fire in something like reasonable time. It is expected that within two weeks the other and lighter engine will be sent out, and then the P. F. D. will have a fair opportunity to display its working powers in Germantown.

RECEIVER OF TAXES' OFFICE ROBBED.—The office of the Receiver of Taxes about 8 o'clock this morning, was entered, it is supposed by some of the rascally boys who infest the locality, and the desk of Mr. Briggs, one of the clerks, was robbed of some change and due-bills amounting to about $200. The money taken had been given to Mr. Briggs by different parties for the payment of their taxes.

RUNAWAY HORSES.—A pair of horses attached to the family carriage of a Mrs. Baker ran away this morning at ten o'clock, at Front and Washington streets. The driver, John Bradley, was violently thrown to the ground, but fortunately escaped with but slight injuries. The animals were captured before any damage was done.

ADMITTED TO THE BAR.—George F. Clark, upon motion of David W. Sellers, Esq., and Christian J. Hinckle, upon motion of George L. Crawford, Esq., were this morning admitted to practise as attorneys in the District Court and Court of Common Pleas in and for the city and county of Philadelphia.
